The meetings are part of city government's Five-Year Strategic Fiscal and Management planning process, co-chaired by Mayor A C Wharton, Jr. and City Council Budget Chairman Jim Strickland. The planning process entails an evaluation of every service and policy of city government to increase efficiencies, creating a framework for ways to utilize monies to reduce taxes and fund services in more effective ways. A kickoff for the public meetings was held on Thursday, February 28, at the Benjamin Hooks Central Library.
